

Sweet & Maxwell Launches eBooks for Thomson Reuters ProView™ eReader App

Archbold will be first title launched on new format; additional titles to launch in early 2012

London, December 15, 2011 — Sweet & Maxwell, a Thomson Reuters business and a leading provider of legal information, today announced the launch of its initial eBook for Thomson Reuters ProView, the new professional eReader application for the iPad®. Covering many of the most widely used references on both civil and criminal law, the Sweet & Maxwell eBooks on ProView mark a significant step forward in the delivery of legal information to the profession.

Thomson Reuters ProView is the first platform for eBooks that was built from the ground up specifically for professionals. The ProView iPad app can be downloaded free at the Apple® App Store.

Sweet & Maxwell's first eBook title available on the ProView platform is their bestselling Archbold: Criminal Pleading, Evidence and Practice. One of the UK's most widely used legal reference books; Archbold has been in publication since 1822. It offers the most authoritative and comprehensive coverage of practice and procedure within the Crown Court.

Sweet & Maxwell eBooks will enable barristers and solicitors to conduct their preparatory and in-court research more effectively as even the most detailed background material can now be easily accessed from any location.

According to the company's own research, 23 percent of solicitors that specialize in litigation are already using an iPad to access legal information with a slightly higher usage among barristers. The research reveals that the legal profession is exploring how it can make more use of tablets and that lawyers are embracing the benefits of mobile technologies.

"We have invested in our eBook programmes in direct response to customer demand for more flexible and mobile access to legal content," commented Chris Hendry, head of advanced media at Sweet & Maxwell. "The Thomson Reuters ProView platform introduces significant new functionality that hasn't been available in this market – up until now electronic books have been little more than static documents that lack the user-friendly aspects of print books."

With Thomson Reuters ProView, lawyers with access to Sweet & Maxwell eBooks can make notes or email sections immediately to clients or colleagues, and they can search the textbook without having to leave the page they are reading.

With fewer hefty documents to bring to court or client meetings, as well as faster and more advanced ways to access reference material, Sweet & Maxwell eBooks will both save lawyers valuable time and literally lighten their load.

Additional ProView benefits include the abilities to:

- Search the entire eBook without leaving the current page
- Update content as new editions are published
- Add notes to the text, which will automatically transfer to later purchased editions
- Highlight sections of text easily
- Copy sections of an eBook straight into an email for clients or counsel
- Hyperlink to relevant sections via links within the text
- Quickly find and review references at a later date via bookmark or flag

THOMSON REUTERS

To find out more about Thomson Reuters ProView and Sweet & Maxwell's new eBooks, please visit:
www.sweetandmaxwell.com/proview

Sweet & Maxwell, through its highly acclaimed online services Lawtel and Westlaw UK and its print and other digital publications, is now the leading provider of information and solutions to the legal and professional markets in the UK and Ireland.

Part of Thomson Reuters and with over 200 years of history and heritage in legal publishing, Sweet & Maxwell offers detailed and specialist knowledge, understanding, interpretation and commentary across a wide range of subjects in a variety of formats to meet customers' needs – online, books, journals, periodicals, looseleafs and DVDs.

Thomson Reuters

Thomson Reuters is the world's leading source of intelligent information for businesses and professionals. We combine industry expertise with innovative technology to deliver critical information to leading decision makers in the financial, legal, tax and accounting, healthcare and science and media markets, powered by the world's most trusted news organization. With headquarters in New York and major operations in London and Eagan, Minnesota, Thomson Reuters employs more than 55,000 people and operates in over 100 countries. For more information, go to www.thomsonreuters.com.

CONTACTS

Paul Sandell
Manager, PR & Communications
+44 (0) 207 393 7386
paul.sandell@thomsonreuters.com