

Int.T.L.R Issue 1 of 2022

Table of Contents

Articles

Africa and trade facilitation: overview, challenges and perspectives

Ismaelline Eba Nguema

Abstract: Discusses the challenges and opportunities for African countries in trade facilitation, in view of the launch of a new free trade area for the entire continent.

Australian dairy industry policies—protecting domestic sustainability? A comparative analysis

Bruno Zeller and Robert Walters

Abstract: Compares the Australian Government's unwillingness to support dairy farmers with the legal frameworks for support in the EU, Canada and Switzerland. Considers the Government's Dairy Code and the industry Dairy Plan introduced in 2020, and examines the priorities for Government intervention.

State monopolies and the free movement of goods in EEA law: ensuring substantive homogeneity at the EFTA Court

Graham Butler and Marius Meling

Abstract: Examines the divergent treatment of state monopolies and the free movement of goods in the EFTA Court and the ECJ.

Extending the reach of EU anti-subsidy measures: Transnational subsidies

Sven De Knop, Dr. Bregt Natens and Maryanne Kamau

Abstract: Reports on three EU anti-subsidy investigations of transnational subsidies granted by China to support production in third countries of goods which were exported to the EU.

Int.T.L.R Issue 2 of 2022

Table of Contents

Opinion

Digital trade and investment in the UK-Australia Free Trade Agreement: Promises kept from the Agreement in principle 85

David Collins

Abstract: Considers the Free Trade Agreement between the United Kingdom and Australia 2021, the UK's first trade agreement after Brexit, focusing on the provisions on investment and market access, and digital trade

Articles

Lines of attack and defences for foreign investors and states in future investment disputes post-pandemic 90

Nathalie MOP Potin

Abstract: Discusses the prospect that foreign investors may claim reparation from states because the coronavirus pandemic adversely affected their investment, and defences which states may raise that they took appropriate action in response to the crisis.

Towards sustainable transformation of global economic governance 110

Klaus Bank

Abstract: Discusses how to address global economic challenges including sustainable development and climate change after the coronavirus pandemic, by reforming World Trade Organization functions with a view to environmental sustainability and co-operation with other multilateral initiatives.

EU's Blocking Statute: an in-depth look at the EU's attempt to protect EU individuals and companies engaged in lawful international trade 131

Nadiya Nychay and Nicoleta Tuominem

Abstract: Reports on Regulation 2271/96 (Blocking Statute), as updated in 2018, intended to prevent extraterritorial application of US trade sanctions, which has the effect of limiting EU businesses' freedom of contract and Member States' autonomy.

Int.T.L.R Issue 3 of 2022

Table of Contents

Opinion

More than Investment Facilitation

Sheela Rai

143

Abstract: Comments on the WTO Proposal for a Multilateral Framework for Investment Facilitation, intended to remove procedural obstacles to fast and efficient trade in goods and services. Considers whether the objectives and scope are too restricted, and a multilateral investment treaty would be more helpful.

The EU's 'greened' Injury Margin: a Closer Look at Law and Practice

Arnoud Willems, Cyriel Danneels and Dr. Bregt Natens

153

Abstract: Discusses how the EU accounts for current and future compliance with social and environmental law in anti-dumping or anti-subsidy cases. Reviews cases in which the non-injurious price was increased because of future compliance costs with international labour standards and climate change prevention.

Articles

A Preliminary Look at the Lithuania/China Contretemps: GATT's Article XXI\(b\) Exception

Rex J. Zedalis

161

Abstract: Comments on the trade dispute between Lithuania and China about Taiwan's office in Lithuania, and China's import controls against Lithuania in response, examining the international law provision on an exception for trade measures which a state considers necessary for its national security.

The Twisted Future of the Multi-party Interim Appeal Arbitration \(MPIA\) at the World Trade Organization

Gizem Demirel

177

Abstract: Discusses whether the WTO multi-party interim appeal arbitration procedure (MPIA) offers a viable alternative to dispute resolution by the Appellate Body, which currently is deadlocked. Examines the need for reforms to enable the Appellate Body to work again.

Int.T.L.R Issue 4 of 2022

Table of Contents

Opinion

Trust, Transparency and Technology—An Introduction to Smart Customs, Ports and Borders

Jason Chuah

199

Abstract: Introduces the articles in a special issue about modernisation, new technology and digitalisation used by national customs authorities.

Articles

Customs and Trade Facilitation in the Age of Digitalization and Global Trade 2.0: Unlocking the 'Black Box' at the Borders

Lars Karlsson

204

Abstract: Discusses the need for customs authorities to respond to the new post-pandemic framework of world trade by expanding their authorised economic operator programmes, using new data sources, integrating with the private sector and collaborating on compliance management.

Customs as “Provider” of Transparent AI in the EU

Abhinayan Basu Bal and Trisha Rajput

222

Abstract: Discusses how Gothenburg Municipality used automated decision-making for school placements, but a faulty algorithm gave rise to complaints, and looks at the implications if customs authorities outsource systems development, but still must comply with the EU requirements for transparency.

“All is well that ends well”: Smart Ports in Brazil—Hurdles, Success, and their Economic Impact

Dr Julia Constantino Chagas Lessa

241

Abstract: Discusses the progress made so far by modernising legislation in Brazil on cabotage and the Government's "paperless port" initiative.

Book Review

Incomplete International Investment Agreements: Problems, Causes and Solutions, by Tae Jung Park

David Collins

252