The Law of Local Government

2nd Edition

David Browne

Now entering its second edition, The Law of Local Government provides a comprehensive and definitive analysis of the law on local government, including the substantive and procedural provisions which are relevant for the application of law on local government and local authority legislative provisions.

Key features:

- Provides a comprehensive analysis of local government law and the legislative provisions applying to local government law.
- Details the main statutory provisions and provides an exhaustive and extensive analysis of relevant case law.
- Analyses particular points of law which require clarification and deserve academic analysis.
- Refers to the relevant District Court, Circuit Court and Superior Court Rules for applications and enforcement proceedings under the local government statutory code.
- Summarises the law relating to local government administration, functions and services.
- Deals with key provisions on the local government system, including the role of the Manager, elected members and officials, and employees.
- Provides an overview of the legal capacity and potential liability of local authorities.
- Includes a specific chapter on public procurement and local authorities which will hopefully be of use to a wider audience in the absence of a specific text on public procurement.
- Dedicated chapters on the main functions and services provided by local authorities, including planning enforcement, waste and water services, housing, roads, building regulations, etc.
- Specific focus on the financing of local government, including rating, borrowing and auditing.

The new edition brings the book fully up-to-date with all relevant case law and legislative developments since its first edition published in 2014.

Equity and the Law of Trusts in Ireland

7th Edition

Hilary Biehler

Now in its seventh edition, Equity and the Law of Trusts in Ireland provides a comprehensive treatment and analysis of this area of the law. This updated and expanded new edition examines recent developments in relation to both trusts and equitable remedies. While it focuses on reviewing and analysing the law in this jurisdiction, extensive reference is also made to the relevant principles as they have developed in England and Wales, where appropriate, and in other common law countries such as Canada, Australia and New Zealand. Recognised as a key text by both students and practitioners, it also provides useful insights into likely future developments in this area of the law.

New to this edition:

- Examines significant recent judgments in this jurisdiction including the Supreme Court decisions in ACC Loan Management Ltd v Rickard [2019] IESC 29 and McGrath v Stewart [2016] 2 I.R. 704.
- Includes an expanded chapter on constructive trusts with more detailed material on institutional and remedial constructive trusts and the features of fiduciary relationships.
- Analyses recent developments in the law relating to the grant of interlocutory injunctions and specific performance.
- Contains analysis of a number of decisions of the Court of Appeal which have clarified the principle that it is necessary to establish evidence of undue influence or other wrongdoing in order to succeed in proceedings against a third party financial institution where the latter seeks to enforce a guarantee.
- Examines key decisions of the Supreme Court of the United Kingdom in this field, such as Patel v Mirza [2017] A.C. 467 (on illegality) and of the Privy Council, such as in Marr v Collie (on common intention constructive trusts).
- Incorporates updated and expanded material from other common law jurisdictions in areas such as the administration of trusts and proprietary estoppel.

About the Author

Hilary Biehler has practised as a barrister and is Professor of Public Law in Trinity College Dublin. She has written extensively in the fields of equity and the law of trusts, civil procedure, and administrative law and is the author of a number of Thomson Reuters Round Hall titles.

Practical Probate

1st Edition

Karl Dowling and Susan Martin

The Probate Office has introduced changes intended to bring a degree of clarity to probate procedures for practitioners and to increase the efficiency of the Probate Office. These new rules will reduce the likelihood of papers being queried and are intended to make the system more legally robust and relevant.

In response to these developments, Practical Probate has been specially formulated to represent a concise collection of essential principles on probate practice, written in the style of the late Eamonn G. Mongey's Probate Practice in a Nutshell.

This text presents the reader with a practical approach to the issues that practitioners face on a day-to-day basis, and provides a succinct road map, setting out the steps that need to be taken in probate practice in a straightforward and clear manner. It focuses on the core issues surrounding probate practice; in particular: the validity of wills, inheritance rights, and the extraction of grants.

Features:

- Consolidated statutory, regulatory and customary practices and procedures.
- Helpful precedent wills, oaths and other essential documentation.
- A series of helpful checklists, which assist the practitioner in identifying the correct procedure.
- Presents the 'nuts and bolts' of probate practice and procedure in an easy-to-interpret format.

About the Authors

Karl Dowling BL is a barrister with a specialist practice in probate litigation and regularly appears before the High Court and Circuit Court. He is a Founding Member of the Probate Bar Association.

Susan Martin is a solicitor with a busy Dublin practice, and has significant experience in the administration of estates and probate litigation. She is an Officer of Dublin Solicitors Bar Association and a Member of the Council of the Law Society of Ireland.

Landlord and Tenant Law, the Residential Sector

2nd Edition

Jennifer Ring and Úna Cassidy

The second edition of Landlord and Tenant Law, the Residential Sector provides a comprehensive overview of the law relating to residential tenancies. The text simplifies the complexities of the Residential Tenancies Act 2004 and amending legislation, including the recently enacted Residential Tenancies (Amendment) Act 2019. It provides commentary on reported and unreported decisions of the courts, as well as tribunal decisions of the Residential Tenancies Board. The text includes practical examples and precedents for legal practitioners and those involved in the residential sector more generally, including landlords, tenants and letting agents. It is also a comprehensive reference source for students and academics.

Features:

- Consolidates the law relating to residential tenancies.
- Explains the procedure for carrying out a rent review and the restrictions that apply to increasing rent in rent pressure zones.
- Summarises the obligations that landlords and tenants must comply with.
- Provides a step-by-step guide to the dispute resolution process before the Residential Tenancies Board.
- Analyses key decisions before the courts and provides a comprehensive reference source of tribunal decisions before the Residential Tenancies Board.
- Details all key amendments introduced by the Residential Tenancies (Amendment) Act 2019, including the requirement that landlords register tenancies annually and the sanctions regime that now applies where landlords breach their obligations.
- Now includes practice notes – useful for both practitioners and landlords and tenants.

Useful precedents include:

- Rent review notices.
- Notices of termination.
- Court forms.

Damages

2nd Edition

Tadhg Dorgan and Peter McKenna

The second edition of Damages is designed as a reference work for practitioners who deal with day-to-day litigation and advisory work. It is written to assist lawyers on discrete issues on quantum and recent practice with the calculation of damages, together with academic commentary.

The law of damages is a fast-paced and constantly changing area that straddles all aspects of the law. The first edition of this title was the first Irish publication on the issue of damages generally, and the new edition consolidates its success with fully updated chapters taking account of the present law.

The book aims to provide practitioners with a guide to approaching and quantifying the issue of quantum. As well as providing commentary on general principles of approaching quantum such as contributory negligence, the book also deals with substantive areas. Such areas range from personal injuries and contract, to more discrete areas of statutory damages and misfeasance.

The new edition also provides an up-to-date reference for substantive areas of the law concerning the issue of damages, as well as dealing with the more general issues of mitigation of loss and contributory damages.

About the Authors

Tadhg Dorgan BCL (NUI) is a Barrister-at-Law of King's Inns Dublin and of the Inns of Court of Northern Ireland, Middle Temple.

Peter McKenna BA (Dub) M. Phil (Cantab) is a Barrister-at-Law.

Judicial Review of Criminal Proceedings

2nd Edition

Derek Dunne

The second edition of Judicial Review of Criminal Proceedings by Derek Dunne contains a full and up-to-date exposition and analysis of judicial review as it applies at all stages of criminal proceedings. It incorporates a thorough and detailed analysis of the new Order 84 of the Rules of the Superior Courts that came into effect shortly after the publication of the first edition in 2011, as well as all important case law of the superior courts and all legislative developments in the time since. The second edition also contains an entirely new exposition and analysis of judicial review as it arises or applies following conviction and sentence, including: analysis of the relationship between judicial review and Article 40.4.2 of Bunreacht na hÉireann 1937; judicial review of prison conditions; and judicial review of decisions of the executive concerning temporary release, remission, enhanced remission, etc.

Judicial review has assumed increased importance in areas such as prison conditions; decisions of the executive concerning applications for temporary release, remission and enhanced remission; and warrants.

New to this edition

- Amended Order 84 of the Rules of the Superior Courts came into effect in 2011.
- Entirely new section on language rights in criminal proceedings and judicial review.
- New section on judicial review of warrants (including bench warrants, arrest warrants, search warrants and committal warrants).
- New section on blameworthy prosecutorial delay in criminal proceedings involving children and the Children Act 2001.
- New section on judicial review of decisions of the executive concerning temporary release, remission and enhanced remission.
- All chapters have been substantially revised and rewritten to incorporate all important recent legislative and judicial developments.

About the Author

Derek Dunne is a practising barrister. He holds BCL and LLM degrees from NUI Cork and is a Fellow of the Chartered Institute of Arbitrators. He is also the co-author of Arbitration Law, Third Edition (Round Hall, 2018).

Irish Land Law: A Casebook

1st Edition

Amina Adanan and Neil Maddox

Irish Land Law: A Casebook presents the leading cases and legislative provisions in Irish land law in an accessible format. Each chapter explains the principles for the topic in an easy-to-understand manner. The seminal cases for each area are included in the book, as well as newer cases. Topics covered include: ownership; licences, rights of residence, proprietary estoppel and constructive trusts; adverse possession; mortgages; family property; co-ownership; succession law; incorporeal hereditaments; landlord and tenant law; human rights and land law.

Since the introduction of the Land and Conveyancing Law Reform Act 2009, there have been judicial developments that have addressed the workings of the Act, which are included in this casebook. These areas include mortgages, family property and co-ownership. The book also takes into account the recent case law under the Civil Partnership and Certain Rights and Obligations of Cohabitants Act 2010, as well as the impact of the European Convention on Human Rights Act 2003 on Irish land law.

The book is written with the revising student in mind. Each case is succeeded by questions that enable students to reflect on and engage with the material, in order to optimise the reader's learning experience. This text is a useful tool for teaching land law in third-level institutions and professional training bodies.

About the Authors

Dr Neil Maddox is Assistant Professor of Law in Maynooth University Law Department. He teaches Property Law and Irish Constitutional Law and has published a number of books and articles on Irish land law.

Dr Amina Adanan is Assistant Professor of Law in Maynooth University Law Department. She teaches Property Law, Fundamental Rights in Ireland and International Human Rights Law. Amina researches in the areas of international law and legal history and has published in these areas.

Simons on Planning Law

3rd Edition

David Browne

In the long-awaited new edition of Simons on Planning Law, David Browne updates this comprehensive analysis of the area of planning law in Ireland to include developments in national and European case law since the previous edition, and reflects legal developments in the area since 2007.

Significant statutory changes have occurred since the previous edition, including the Planning and Development (Amendment) Acts of 2010, 2015, 2017 and 2018, as well as the Planning and Development (Housing) and Residential Tenancies Act 2016, all of which are dealt with in this volume.

In addition, there have been over 100 statutory instruments and numerous decisions of the CJEU and national courts in the area of planning law in the intervening period, between editions.

Features:

- Includes all relevant statutory provisions and case law.
- Provides a detailed analysis of the complex area of planning law.
- Enables practitioners to understand both substantive planning law and the procedural rules in judicial review applications, appeals and costs applications.

About the Author

David Browne BL is a practising barrister specialising in the areas of administrative, local government, planning, environmental and procurement law. He is the author of The Law of Local Government (second edition to be published by Round Hall in 2020) and co-author of Procurement Law in Ireland (Round Hall, 2018). David also lectures in Administrative Law and is the course co-ordinator of the Advanced Diploma in Planning and Environmental Law in the Honorable Society of King's Inns.

* Additional contributions have been provided for this edition by Conor Quinn BL (Chapters 10 and 18) and Brendan Slattery, Partner in McCann Fitzgerald (Chapter 16).

Child and Family Law

3rd Edition

Geoffrey Shannon

October 2020

ISBN: 9780414056336

Price: €365

This title is also available
as an eBook on Thomson
Reuters ProView™

The third edition of this major work evaluates the entire Irish child law system. The subject matter contained in the book provides an opportunity for examining the relationship that exists, or ought to exist, between child welfare and parental rights. It examines the rights and duties of parents and children in respect of each other. It considers how best to balance the welfare of children who may require care, with the right of children—and their families—to protection from unwarranted State intervention.

This edition takes into account the new constitutional provision, Article 42A, and several new statutes including the Children First Act 2015 and the Children and Family Relationships Act 2015. It also includes the new District, Circuit, High Court of Appeal and Supreme Court Rules.

About the Author

Professor Geoffrey Shannon is the Chairman of the Adoption Authority of Ireland and former Government Rapporteur on Child Protection.

McGrath on Evidence

3rd Edition

Declan McGrath and Emily Egan McGrath

McGrath on Evidence, by Declan McGrath and Emily Egan McGrath, is the third edition of the definitive book on evidence and is a must-have for the serious practitioner. Part of the Round Hall Brehon Library, McGrath on Evidence is unique in its breadth of coverage, scope and detail.

This essential practitioner work concentrates on Irish case law in relation to the law of evidence but also discusses relevant jurisprudence from other jurisdictions.

It deals not only with the law of evidence as it applies to criminal trials, but also the rules applicable in civil trials.

Features:

- Examines the concept of relevance and the basic rules governing the admissibility of evidence.
- Discusses the competence and compellability of witnesses, the rules and principles governing the examination of witnesses, previous consistent statements, and legislative provisions permitting evidence to be given by live television link and certificate.
- Analyses the various measures adopted to deal with the problems posed by unreliable evidence including accomplice evidence, the evidence of sexual complainants and children, and the rules regarding identification evidence.
- Reviews, in detail, all of the privileges available in criminal and civil proceedings, including legal professional privilege, without prejudice privilege and public interest privilege.
- Gives an in-depth review of the policy and constitutional basis for the protection in Irish law of the right not to be compelled to incriminate oneself and, in particular, the right of an accused not to testify, the right to silence of a criminal suspect, and the privilege against self-incrimination.

About the Authors

Declan McGrath is Senior Counsel who is also a co-author of Delany and McGrath on Civil Procedure.

Emily Egan McGrath is a practising barrister who is also a co-author of Delany and McGrath on Civil Procedure.

Highways

1st Edition

Peter Bland

Highways by Peter Bland represents the first dedicated commentary on the Irish law in this area. It provides a comprehensive and practical analysis of the law of public roads, public rights of way and the liability of the road authority.

Cases involving the public road comprise a significant proportion of civil litigation. The Irish law relating to the liability of the road authority for dangers arising on the public road requires clarification and has, to date, suffered from a lack of analysis.

This work provides a complete and up-to-date review of the law of public roads, including creation, maintenance, management, EIA, AA, compulsory purchase and compensation, trading, and bridges.

This brand new title:

- Delivers a comprehensive and practical commentary on the law relating to the creation, maintenance and ownership of public roads, including the powers and duties of road authorities, and the rights and responsibilities of users of the public road and of those who own adjoining land.
- Addresses the liability of the roads authority, including a detailed analysis of the nonfeasance rule.
- Explores the liability issues relating to design, road surface, road installations, traffic signs, lighting, trees and transient dangers.
- Reviews key issues and trends in the law of nuisance and negligence relevant to public roads and road authority liability.
- Considers the planning and environmental regulation of public roads, and addresses EIA and AA jurisprudence.
- Includes a review of the law of compulsory purchase and compensation relating to road projects.
- Provides comprehensive treatment of the law of public rights of way.
- Includes a chapter on protest rights and Convention jurisprudence.
- Features a consolidated version of the Roads Act 1993.

About the Author

Peter Bland is a Senior Counsel and is also the author of Easements, Third Edition (Round Hall, 2015).

The Central Bank Acts: Annotated and Consolidated

1st Edition

John Freeman with John Johnston McCarroll

The legislative framework for regulated financial services in Ireland is notably complex and, as yet, unconsolidated. The Central Bank Acts 1942–2018 and the Financial Services and Pensions Ombudsman Act 2017 provide the basic architecture for the financial system. They set the regulatory perimeter in some significant areas, significantly shape the rights of customers, and define the functions and powers of the key players: the Central Bank of Ireland, the Appeals Tribunal, and Financial Services and Pensions Ombudsman.

This new text sets out the consolidated text of each Central Bank Act on the statute book (and the Financial Services and Pensions Ombudsman Act 2017) in chronological order. Each Act features an introduction, and the annotations beneath each section expand on the meaning of each section and provide notes on relevant case law.

Features:

- Up-to-date consolidated legislation showing commencements, repeals, substitutions and amendments.
- Annotations on each section, with detailed notes on relevant case law.
- Detailed commentary on the Financial Services and Pensions Ombudsman and on the interaction between the FSPO and the courts.
- In-depth consideration of the legal status of codes of conduct, such as the Code of Conduct on Mortgage Arrears and the Consumer Protection Code.
- Close analysis of the statutory cause of action for damages for a contravention of financial services legislation.
- Key provisions which have not been considered by the courts in Ireland are compared with provisions of UK financial services law.
- An introduction on each Act.
- Clear division of primary and secondary legislation.

Civil Proceedings and the State

3rd Edition

Anthony M. Collins and James O'Reilly

The third edition of Civil Proceedings and the State gives the practitioner a comprehensive and definitive analysis of the practice of public and administrative law in the State. It consists of an authoritative and fully updated commentary on the statutes, rules of court and practice directions in the Courts of Ireland. The practice and procedure of the Court of Justice of the EU and of the European Court of Human Rights are considered from Irish practitioner's viewpoint. The book also contains a fully revised set of modern precedents for all of the various public law procedures the practitioner is likely to encounter.

New to this edition:

- Modern precedents designed to meet the demands of a busy practice.
- New chapter on statutory applications and appeals.
- Description of the new procedures in the Supreme Court and in the Court of Appeal.
- Comprehensive description of the law on the application of the European Convention of Human Rights.
- Practical analysis of the choice of procedures or remedies.

About the Authors

Anthony M. Collins is a Judge at the General Court of the European Union, prior to which he was a Senior Counsel specialising in all aspects of public and administrative law.

James O'Reilly is a Senior Counsel with over a quarter of a century's experience of practice at the Inner Bar in the fields of administrative, commercial and public law.
